DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statements (IDS) submitted on November 21st, 2000 and February 19th, 2003 have been considered by the examiner.

Drawings

2. The drawings filed on February 8th, 2000 have been accepted by the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mahon et al. (4,809,160).

Regarding Claims 1 and 6, Mahon et al. discloses a method of promoting a current privilege level wherein the current privilege level controls application instruction execution in the system by controlling accessibility to the system resources (Column 1, line 55 – Column 2, line 45), the method comprising: performing a privilege level promotion instruction by the operating system, the privilege promotion instruction being stored in a first page of memory not writeable by application instructions at a first privilege level (“store access rights of calling routine in T register”), the privilege promotion instruction including: reading a stored previous privilege level state (“read access rights of calling routine”); comparing the read previous privilege level state to the current privilege level (“Compare”, “Access = OK?”); and if the previous privilege level state is equal to or less privileged than the current privilege level, promoting the current privilege level to a second privilege level which is higher than the first privilege level (“raise access rights to access rights of gateway”, see Figure 2).

Regarding Claims 12, 17 and 23 Mahon et al. discloses a computer system comprising a processor (Figure 1, Instruction Unit 20) having current privilege level which controls accessibility to the system resources (Column 1, line 55 – Column 2, line 45) and having a previous privilege level state (“access rights of page containing gateway”, Figure 2); a memory (Figure 1, Target Register File 80) having a plurality of memory pages including a first memory page storing a privilege promotion instruction (“Target Register 70”) and not writeable by application instructions at a first privilege level (“store access rights of calling routine in T register”); and performing the privilege level promotion instruction as follows: reading a stored previous privilege level state (“read access rights of calling routine”); comparing the read previous privilege level state to the current privilege level (“Compare”, “Access = OK?”); and if the previous privilege level state is equal to or less privileged than the current privilege level, promoting the current privilege level to a second privilege level which is higher than the first privilege level (“raise access rights to access rights of gateway”, see Figure 2).

Regarding Claims 2, 8, 13, and 19, Mahon et al discloses the method of promoting a current privilege level wherein the step of performing the privilege promotion instruction further includes: if the previous privilege level state is more privileged then the current privilege level (“Access = No”), taking an illegal operation fault (“Trap Gateway”, see Figure 2).

Art Unit: 2188

Regarding Claims 3, 9, 14, and 20, Mahon et al discloses the method of promoting a current privilege level wherein the system resources include system registers (Figure 1, Target Register File 80 and Target Register 70).

Regarding Claims 4, 10, 15, and 21, Mahon et al discloses the method of promoting a current privilege level wherein the system resources include system instructions (“calling routine”, Figure 2).

Regarding Claims 5, 11, 16, and 22 Mahon et al discloses the method of promoting a current privilege level wherein the system resources include memory pages (Figure 1, Physical Memory 40).

Regarding Claim 7, 18, and 24 Mahon et al discloses the method of promoting a current privilege level further comprising: performing a return instruction including: transferring instruction control flow to the stored return address to the first page of memory (“execute service routine”, Figure 2); and demoting the current privilege level to the stored previous privilege level (“Return access rights of service routine per contents of the T register”, Figure 2).
